

Blog Post

A Texas school restart experience: Q&A with a Dallas Independent School District administrator

The Dallas Independent School District was the first district in Texas to implement the state's locally managed school restart model for low-performing schools. In this Q&A, the district's deputy chief of priority schools and leadership development shares her perspective and advice on implementing this school turnaround strategy.

READ MORE

Infographic

Highlighting the evidence behind strategic school actions and school improvement strategies

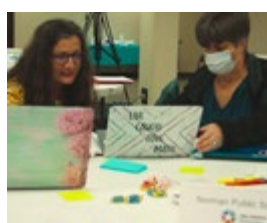

Understanding the evidence behind whole-school interventions and school improvement strategies can help states and districts be more intentional in adopting policies and strategies to help turn around their lowest performing schools. This infographic highlights four strategic school actions, or whole-school interventions, for improving student outcomes in these schools.

READ MORE

Video

Partners in continuous improvement: Oklahoma Excel Networked Improvement Communities

Learn how REL Southwest partnered with the Oklahoma State Department of Education to support and improve Oklahoma Excel, a data-driven and job-embedded professional development program that uses a networked improvement community model to enable teachers to rapidly and iteratively test and refine classroom practices.

READ MORE

Blog Post

Resource roundup: Strategies to strengthen family outreach and engagement to support student learning

Ample research suggests that developing strong partnerships among schools, families, and the community can benefit student learning, both in the classroom and at home. To support educators in using evidence-based family engagement practices, we rounded up recent research and resources on the topic from across the REL network.

READ MORE

Training/Coaching

Training to support collaborative conversations between English learner specialists and classroom teachers of English learner students

REL Southwest partnered with Rio Rancho Public Schools in New Mexico to develop this five-part training series designed to strengthen the ability of English learner specialists and elementary school teachers to work together to improve English learner instruction, with a focus on academic vocabulary development.

READ MORE

Blog Post

How the 2017–22 cohort of RELs supported the use of evidence in education

This Inside IES Research blog post celebrates successes across the REL network over the last five years as nine of the 10 RELs begin new scopes of work.

READ MORE

Ask A REL

Check out the responses to some recent questions submitted to the Ask A REL reference desk. Then explore the full list or submit a question of your own.

- What research is available on difference in student performance when using online curriculum materials versus a textbook?
- What research is available on effective programs for preparing new principals?

Webinar Archives

If you missed our recent webinars, the recordings and materials are available online.

- Grow Your Own Program. From State Education Agency to School District to Student Outcomes
- Supporting Student Success Through Positive Approaches to School Discipline

View all past events

SUBSCRIBE

This newsletter was prepared under Contract 91990018C0002 by Regional Educational Laboratory Southwest, administered by American Institutes for Research. The content of this publication does not necessarily reflect the views or policies of the Institute of Education Sciences (IES) or the U.S. Department of Education, nor does mention of trade names, commercial products, or organizations imply endorsement by the U.S. government.

Questions or comments should be directed to:
REL Southwest
4700 Mueller Blvd., Austin, TX 78723
800-476-6861 | ies.ed.gov/ncee/edlabs/regions/southwest