

Survey Development Guidance Checklist

The survey team will embark on two types of preparation activities, leading up to the administration of the survey.

Survey instrument development includes preparing and testing the items that will appear on the survey.
Survey administration design includes determining who will be surveyed and how.

